Civil and Canon relationships

When you're in a Kinship report, you can see two columns labeled "Civil" and "Canon." These words, "Civil" and "Canon" refer to the degree of a relationship. The degree of a relationship is a legal term. It refers to the number of "steps" between two people who are related by blood.

Canon law is used in most of the United States. It measures the maximum number of steps from the nearest common ancestor. For example, you would be 2 direct steps away from your first cousin because your nearest common ancestor is one of your grandparents. So in this case, the degree is 2.

The degree in civil law represents the total number of steps through the blood line that separate two individuals. For example, there are 2 steps from you to your grandparent, and then 2 more steps back down to your first cousin, so the degree is 4.

The relationship in each box is what that person's relationship would be to you, where you are "Self." As you can see, you, your siblings, your 1st cousins, 2nd cousins, etc., are all in the same generation. Thus, "once removed" means "one generation removed."

THE PIONEER CEMETERY OF GRASSY FORK TOWNSHIP, JACKSON COUNTY

ROY H. BELDON

Situated one-half mile north of the Waskom Muscatatuck River bridge, no public road leads to the pioneer cemetery in southern Grassy Fork Township in Jackson County. In early days, it was reached by a winding road through the forest, and it was over this type of path that the early settlers bore their loved ones to their final resting place. At that time, the cemetery was a beautiful cleared knoll overlooking the winding Muscatatuck River and the primitive forest of its broad valley.

Although I knew it to be in a wilderness state, I came upon and was in the cemetery before I realized the fact, so badly has it been neglected. Wild cherry, hackberry, oak, and walnut trees that measure eighteen inches in diameter have grown near or on the graves. Briar patches are broad and dense and cover many graves. Underneath these briars were ridges of fresh turned earth, which reminded me of new graves; but this could not be true, because this cemetery has not been used for some fifty years. The fresh earth was that of recently dug woodchuck holes.

I found this pioneer cemetery divided by a line fence. Farmers have not curved their fencing around it for years. Constructed of barbed wire, supported by posts, its strands stapled to some of the trees, this fence now divides cow pastures on two separate farms, namely, the Waskom farm and the Henry Fogelding farm.

On the north side of the fence I found only one stone standing on which was carved this:

Sarah, Wife of A. O. Belding, Sr.
Born August 20, 1805. Died June 13, 1859

Flat on the ground are three other stones from which I dug away earth and grass and scraped moss in order to read the names and dates:

Aaron O. Belding, born November 22, 1796
Died April 15, 1867
James O., Son of N. B. & E. Fislar
Died August 7, 1864. Aged 1 yr. 11 Mo. 29 da.

Finding Your Way in the Book Stacks

The Historical Genealogy Department uses a modified Dewey Decimal numbering system to organize books on the shelves. Once you know its secret, finding books is easy. The Location Guide on the reverse side of this sheet gives the beginning part of the call number for general books on each state or province. Books on counties in each state have "01" added to the general state number, and then are arranged in alphabetical order by the name of the county. Books on specific cities, towns or villages in each state have "02" added to the general state number, and then are arranged in alphabetical order by the name of the specific place. Also check county books for information on specific towns. The following order is typical:

977.2	General books on Indiana
977.201 AL5	Books on Allen County, Indiana
977.201 D36	Books on DeKalb County, Indiana
977.202 Au1	Books on Auburn, Indiana
977.202 F77	Books on Fort Wayne, Indiana

You may simply browse the shelves for items on a geographic area of interest, but remember to check the online catalog for books given a call number you don't expect. Ask a librarian if you need assistance.

Finding Your Way in the Book Stacks

The Historical Genealogy Department uses a modified Dewey Decimal numbering system to organize books on the shelves. Once you know its secret, finding books is easy. The Location Guide on the reverse side of this sheet gives the beginning part of the call number for general books on each state or province. Books on counties in each state have "01" added to the general state number, and then are arranged in alphabetical order by the name of the county. Books on specific cities, towns or villages in each state have "02" added to the general state number, and then are arranged in alphabetical order by the name of the specific place. Also check county books for information on specific towns. The following order is typical:

977.2	General books on Indiana
977.201 AL5	Books on Allen County, Indiana
977.201 D36	Books on DeKalb County, Indiana
977.202 Au1	Books on Auburn, Indiana
977.202 F77	Books on Fort Wayne, Indiana

You may simply browse the shelves for items on a geographic area of interest, but remember to check the online catalog for books given a call number you don't expect. Ask a librarian if you need assistance.

begun in 1880. Another repository of census microfilms, and a vast number of other statistics, is the Family History Library in Salt Lake City. The Accelerated Indexing System (AIS), a microfiche index, lists surnames in the United States from 1607 to 1906, and gives the locations where records can be found. The AIS and the Family History Library Catalog microfiches can also be searched at many stake archives of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. There is no charge for this service, or for assistance by library volunteers, but donations are recommended.

In your pretrip preparations, write to the state historical and genealogical library or society for vital records research information and to the county chamber of commerce where you will be researching. Ask for a county map, location of churches and cemeteries, addresses of libraries and museums, historical and/or genealogical societies. I have become a member of several in my areas of interest, receiving much help and information through their newsletters. I have also ordered copies of a local newspaper prior to departure, sometimes writing a letter to the editor seeking information on my family surnames.

Begin Your Quest

For newcomers to the RV lifestyle, let me say an RV is the perfect research vehicle, providing space for camera and tape recorder, file folders to store collected documents, a briefcase filled with pens and paper for note taking and a three-ringed binder for a daily journal of accomplishments. Be sure to include your pedigree charts and family group sheets, keep careful records of the source of additions and the date of search. If you are computer literate, add a laptop.

The RV provides a place to lunch and relax after intensive hours in musty courthouse basements, a refuge from rain squalls after tramping through a graveyard, a place to sort through clues and cues and a place to plan the next day's strategy. It is also less expensive than staying in motels and permits a more leisurely travel pace. And, as every RV owner will proclaim, there is something comforting about traveling tortoise-style within one's own home.

If you are starting from the East Coast, you might begin your search in the archives of the New England Historical Society in Boston, the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., or the National Genealogical Society in Arlington, Va. Check to see if any family histories of your surnames have been printed. There is no point in duplicating research.

My journeys begin from California and I have, on each trip, spent a week at the Salt Lake City Family History Library that contains the world's largest collection of genealogical materials. It is a treasure trove, but a mass of confusion to the novice. Attend the orientation session and take time to browse the stacks of biographies and genealogies, state and county history books. Gather the how-to-research outlines on all library resources and ask for help using the Family Search computer file. Be patient. Do not expect to fill in those missing spaces on your charts in one day. You could do all your gene tracking in this one vast

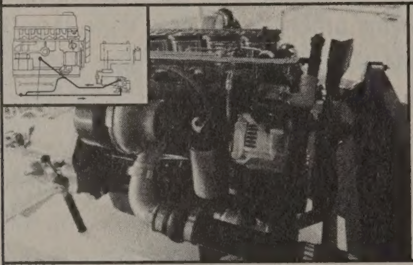
YOUR ENGINE IS THE HEART OF YOUR VEHICLE AND WE ALL KNOW WHAT HAPPENS IF YOUR HEART STOPS!



ENGINE GUARD
(Patented Pump & Motor Assembly)

The Engine Guard (patented pump and motor assembly) pre-lubricates, pre-pressurizes and post-lubricates, protecting your engine from deadly wear and tear caused by "dry starts" and heat at shutdown! Eliminates engine "oil starvation" problems.

The Engine Guard product line is compatible for all engines, gas, diesel and turbocharged. Easy installation. Also available for boats.

ENGINE GUARD DOUBLES YOUR ENGINE LIFE

- What happens when you RUN your engine with no oil or oil pressure? You will grind to a stop!
- What happens when you START your engine with no oil or oil pressure? You will grind to a start, and eventually also grind to a stop!
- This is the planned obsolescence for your engine life, by manufacturers.
- There is no oil or oil pressure when you start your engine, making each start equal to 500 miles of engine wear and tear.
- 95% of engine wear occurs during the first 10 seconds of startup.

FOR YOUR... RVs • cars trucks • boats

— Starting your engine without oil or oil pressure will grind your engine to a stop! — archive, but you would be missing "a sense of place" — seeing your ancestor in his or her own territory.

Explore the Territory

After spending numerous hours in courthouse archives, I finally learned to check the district library first. Many have a local-history section with town and county annals, memoirs and biographies of pioneers, background sketches of townships and a county atlas of original surveys. These plot maps often include names of early landholders — an invaluable reference for locating your ancestor's homesite or farmstead. City directories dating back to the early 1900s can provide addresses and, occasionally, occupations.

A surprising amount of material can be found in the historical society's museum and/or genealogical society archives. There may be files for the county listing others researching the same surnames, old newspapers (either bound or on microfilm), wedding announcements, obituaries and legal notices appearing in a particular time frame and tombstone inscriptions and cemetery records compiled by dedicated volunteers. Burial records and plot maps for community graveyards can be found at city hall or in an office on site. And don't overlook records found in church registers: baptisms, confirmations, marriages and deaths.

By the time you mount the courthouse steps, you will have some idea what you are looking for and where to find it. States and counties have varying offices for storing records: county clerks and recorders, county health and auditors, surrogate courts or town clerks. You will be looking for vital statistics: births, marriages and deaths. Events recorded before 1850 might be found in townships or parishes, after 1850 in the county courthouse and generally at the state level after 1905.

Civil-court records may yield a naturalization application, a divorce revolves. There are several gears on the main shaft that are basically without any antifriction bearings (first, second, third and fourth gears freewheel on the main shaft, unless they are selected by the manual shift lever and its attendant shift forks). If any one of these gears gall and seize to the main shaft, the engine will be forced to rotate.

Actually, this happens occasionally on automobiles that are being towed with the gear selector in Neutral. I took a cutting torch and cut the gear away from the shaft in one instance and found that the gear had nearly welded itself to the shaft.

Art Bodgley
Godfrey, Ill.

◆ Thanks, Art. I received a number of letters from other mechanics like Art on this subject. I appreciate the insight. The bottom line: Follow the manufacturer's recommendations carefully.

Old Refrigerator

I have an old pickup camper with a Magic Chef gas/electric refrigerator. I'm not familiar with the brand. Is it reasonably easy to service and are parts available (even for units that might happen to be 20 to 25 years old)? I asked the seller of the camper about the refrigerator. She said that it worked on electric the last time she used it. Do you think that I should expect it to work on gas?

Herbert Wodtke
Loogootee, Ill.

◆ Yes, it should cool on gas if the refrigerator is working properly. Fortunately, there are still a number of parts available for these old units, but the selection is decreasing, depending on the model. For example, there are no longer burner assemblies available. There are no cosmetic parts available, only those that make the refrigerator function.

Take the rig to your dealer and have the refrigerator checked out. After you have a good diagnosis, call The RV Source at (800) 325-9250. A representative will direct you to the store that can supply parts. If parts are not available, it's time for you to buy a new refrigerator.

Burning Light Fixture

I almost burned my tent trailer down because I forgot to turn off the 12-volt-DC ceiling light before folding it. Fortunately, I smelled something burning and, when I lifted the top, I was shocked to see the cushions close to ignition. No fire this time, but if I make the same mistake again I might not be so lucky.

Why don't the manufacturers provide a safety switch that shuts these lights off when the top is down, even if the owners forget to do so?

Amy Wright
Houston, Texas

◆ I believe most manufacturers of tent trailers now refrain from installing lights above the "wing" beds. Unfortunately, there are a number of tent trailers so equipped still on the road. Although lights mounted above other interior structures usually won't start a fire when left on unintentionally when the trailer is closed, it's still better to provide some sort of a safety net.

While it's possible to install a switch on a corner of the structure that will open the circuit when the top portion is closed, there's an easier way to ensure the power is off. Install a slide switch at the battery that is usually mounted on the trailer's A-frame. If you rely on the tow vehicle's battery for power, install a switch at the wire going into the fuse panel.

Family Ties

Discovering your family history can be a lot of work ... but

How many of us really know where our families began? Not our immediate families — the many generations before us. Some people have been able to trace their ancestors as passengers aboard the Mayflower. Certainly, tracing your family's roots can be a daunting and time-consuming task, but the rewards will make it all worthwhile.

The first question, of course, is where to begin? That's easy enough. Your first stop should be at a local library to peruse its many books on geneaology. It used to be that you could go to the local courthouse and get copies of everything you needed, but discovering one's family tree has become so popular that busy county clerks cannot search and copy their records. You can also visit a genealogical society, but it will often refer you to a professional researcher.

With current technology available, much information can be garnered through computer databases, yet charts of names and dates do not divulge the details of how an ancestor lived nor give insight into their character.

The only way to add sparks of interest to a family saga is to hit the road: Go back to the source, do the research yourself, copy original documents proving land ownership, walk the metes and bounds and wander among the tombstones in a community burial plot. There is nothing quite like the thrill of holding in your hand a last will and testament signed by your ancestor or that feeling of reverence as you finger-trace family names carved in granite. Since I have made four cross-country research trips in my motorhome, I can offer a few suggestions.

Do Your Homework

Begin with yourself and work backward, collecting certificates of births, baptisms, marriages and deaths. Gather information from family Bibles, diaries, letters, journals and photo albums and interview relatives for their memories. Record the statistics on an ancestral chart listing parents by generation and family group sheets listing all children of each parent. There undoubtedly will be empty spaces, an unknown maiden name or unrecorded dates and these might be gaps to cover during your quest.

The most important details on both charts are place of residence, place of birth, marriage or death. You have to know the territory. Successful research depends on identifying the locality where your ancestors lived: the state, county, township and village. All records, including census enumerations, originate in one or more of these. If you can't find a small town in the Rand McNally Atlas or on an auto-club map, consult a gazetteer or geographical dictionary. The most complete that I've found is the OMNI Gazetteer of the United States of America, and many state gazetteers are still being published.

Chart your Course

After collecting all the data available at your home base, a valuable source of information can be found in the census enumerations for the state and county during the period of your family's residence. Although started in 1790, the first five decades named only heads of household — enumerating by ages — and the numbers of family members. After 1850, members were listed by name, with increasing details of information. Due to confidential restrictions of 75 years on data disclosure, the 1920 census is the most recent record open for public inspection. Again, by going back in time, I was able to trace four generations of my paternal lineage, beginning in the place where I was born.

Census records are available on microfilm at the National Archives, Washington, D.C., and at regional branches in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Denver, Fort Worth (Texas), Kansas City (Mo.), Los Angeles, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Seattle. Most state and county surname indexes have been printed and help in deciphering the Soundex indexing system

Subject :	Re: Mason Adams Info.

Merry Christmas to both of you

I hope you have a great Holiday.
I have information completed on Mason Adams in an envelope ready to go. Also a few pictures.
However, I'm going through my album and copying pictures I think you will like. I'll send them in a second envelope. Ran out of large envelopes and will run out today to get some.
During my research on the family I found some great pictures. My parents had several albums.
I'm sending some on the Adams family. Got several great pictures of Mason and Minnie Adams. I'm so glad to know he had a mother. Ha. We always though he was adopted by someone named Alsup. Guess that came from Mary Ann Scarborough when she applied for a pension on Simpson Adams.
Forgive me for procrastinating. There is so much going on here. I'm worried about my sister Cleo (nick name Mabel) and my brother, Floyd. I think I might have mentioned that he fell while in Las Vegas and landed on his neck. He is having a time trying to talk. And that's part of his work!
I'm having a art show I thought in January. The show co-coordinator over-booked..twoi n January and I got bumped to February. Gives me more time to get ready, anyhow.
Also, I completed 55 Arizona historical building detailed drawings and sold the set to a doctor and spouse. They plan to make prints and sell them. I sold them three months ago and yet he has not picked them up yet.
However, they will be in my show and I'll ask him to take them home with him when the show is over. The show runs the month of February. I will also have some paintings up.
I've been in my new home for almost five months now and still getting organized....books, papers, art supplies and hanging paintings. I really like my new home. Liked the other also but it was infested with scorpions. I moved!!! Ha.
It is so good to talk with you. And I can't thank you enough for the info you gave me. After you look thru the info I send, let me know if there is any other line you are interested in. I did not put down any info on the current day children and if you need that info I will get it for you.
I assume you do not want my Dad's side or that of the other
Adam's children spouses.
I have complete info on Wanda if you want that. She is from Martha Adams line.
Love
Janette

Dear Mary,

Thank you very much for your inquiry.

We have a very informative web site with exceptional offers at the moment which will carry through to next year.

www.kilmurrylodge.com

We have a bar and restaurant in the hotel which offer fantastic food

Flannagans Restaurant
serves the best of local ingredients prepared to your liking by our award winning chefs. Savour our Irish Lamb, fresh fish and seafood or delight in one of our nightly specials.
Enjoy a hearty breakfast, buffet style, that will help set you up for a healthy day.

Nelligans Bar
A real Irish Pub – a medley of Irish culture and tradition catering to our cosmopolitan clientele. Irish pubs are renowned globally but it's hard to beat the authenticity of the "craic" and culture one encounters here. Enjoy a more leisurely breakfast in Nelligans (served until 12h00 daily) or a Carvery lunch. Bar food is served throughout the day and evening (served until 10pm daily).

If you have any further queries please do not hesitate to contact me

Kind Regards

Aoife O Reilly
